The Leadership Events Team from the Faculty of Health Sciences and Medicine is pleased to announce this upcoming event:

LEADING ACROSS PERSPECTIVES: INTERPROFESSIONALITY IN HEALTHCARE LEADERSHIP

Healthcare today is increasingly defined by complexity, where no single profession holds all the answers. Interprofessional collaboration has become essential to delivering effective, and patient-centered care. Bringing together perspectives from bedside care to research equips leaders to meet challenges and strengthen resilience. This event explores how leadership can strengthen teamwork across professions and what potential can emerge when barriers are turned into bridges.

The event will be moderated by Stefan Gysin, Program Director, Joint Medical Master's Program
