

THE ANTHROPOLOGY OF CONSERVATION NGOs

Rethinking the Boundaries

Edited by
PETER BILLE LARSEN AND DAN BROCKINGTON

PALGRAVE STUDIES
IN ANTHROPOLOGY
OF SUSTAINABILITY

a network supported by the Schweizerische Eidgenossenschaft
Confédération suisse
Confederazione Svizzera
Confederaziun svizra

INVITATION Environmental NGO Action: Boundaries, Challenges and Opportunities

📅 Thursday 14 December 2017 ⌚ 11:00-12:45
📍 International Environment House I - Room 3
(chemin des Anémones 11)

Faced with unprecedented sustainability challenges, environmental NGOs are key players shaping both popular understanding and policy responses to burning topics such as biodiversity loss, climate change and deforestation. Simultaneously, their role, contribution and perspectives are subject to intense debate by nation states, social movements and academics. Using the opportunity of launching "The Anthropology of Conservation NGOs: rethinking the boundaries" fresh off the press from Palgrave, this event seeks to generate debate about current trends and the future of the environmental movement. As environmental challenges deepen, what are key challenges and opportunities for environmental NGOs?

This roundtable brings together some of the researchers behind the book with key players from the environmental community in Switzerland to debate.

With the participation of:

Mark HALLE, Conservation Futures
Jon HUTTON, Luc Hoffman Institute
Peter Bille LARSEN, Lucerne University
Denis RUYSSCHAERT, Liège University, SWISSAID Genève
Liza ZOGIB, DiversEarth
Diana RIZZOLIO, Geneva Environment Network (moderator)

REGISTRATION

<http://www.genevaenvironmentnetwork.org/?q=en//14122017> by 12 December.

