Prof. Dan L. Burk
(University of California, Irvine)

Dan L. Burk is Chancellor's Professor of Law at the University of California, Irvine, where he is a founding member of the law faculty. An internationally prominent authority on issues related to high technology, he lectures, teaches, and writes in the areas of patent, copyright, electronic commerce, and biotechnology law.

Prof. Burk is the author of numerous papers on the legal and societal impact of new technologies, including articles on scientific misconduct, on the regulation of biotechnology, and on the intellectual property implications of global computer networks.

Prof. Burk holds a B.S. in Microbiology (1985) from Brigham Young University, an M.S. in Molecular Biology and Biochemistry (1987) from Northwestern University, a J.D. (1990) from Arizona State University, and a J.S.M. (1994) from Stanford University.

Prior to joining the faculty at UC Irvine, Prof. Burk taught at the University of Minnesota. He has served as a legal advisor to a variety of private, governmental, and intergovernmental organizations, including the American Civil Liberties Union Committee on Patent Policy and the OECD Committee on Consumer Protection.

laboratorium lucernaiuris

The laboratorium lucernaiuris public lecture series is organised by the Institute for Research in the Fundamentals of Law – lucernaiuris of the University of Lucerne. The goal of the institute is to promote the development of new and innovative cross- and transdisciplinary approaches to the study of the foundational subjects of law and legal jurisprudence. The laboratorium lecture series offers an opportunity for intellectual exchange across disciplinary borders by inviting renowned scholars to report from their respective laboratories and present new insights into the alchemy of current research in the field.

We cordially invite you to attend the lectures in the series and look forward to meeting you.

Prof. Dr. Paolo Becchi und Prof. Dr. Vagias Karavas
