

Does Public Employment Crowd Out Private Employment? Evidence from Swiss Labour Markets

We study whether public sector employment growth displaces private sector employment using Swiss cantonal data from 2011 to 2022. Exploiting a Bartik shift-share instrument, we find that public employment growth significantly reduces private employment. Furthermore, decomposing the public sector, we find that public administration displaces more private jobs than public enterprises.